3	Boyd Farm Cemetery & others		Af-Am	Burying grounds of Af-Am families.	Sodus		http://www.rootsweb.com/~nywayne/index.html	Clark records circa 1882: Another place where the colored people buried their dead is on the east end of the former Boyd farm, the one now owned by the Sergeant Brothers on the Old Geneva Road. It is difficult to see why this place was selected rather than one in the vicinity of the settlement. It is now only a clear plat about two rods square, with neither stone nor signs of graves. The plow has yet spared the place and at the present writing (1882) it is in the midst of a cornfield. It is very near to the east line of the farm. The following persons were buried there and probably others: Thomas Lloyd and three of his children, Margaret, Betsy, Henrietta; two children of Mary Lee, Jane and William. At the Settlement, on the lot of Henry Squires , there are also buried several members of the Lloyd (colored) family. The mother, Rosetta Lloyd and children, Thomas, Julia, Abram and Edward. The father, Thomas Lloyd, was buried on the Boyd Farm. At the Widow Porter's place on Margarett Road there was also a buried, as he requested to be, Peter Brown (colored). The grave is in the rear of the house.
